about the artist

I have been searching the definition and expression of tranquility and I have come across many. I feel that nature gives us the best sense of tranquility. It is through our vision of various elements of nature that bring us the feelings of peace, calmness, belongingness, comfort, hope, joy and even love. Painting nature indeed gives me feeling a step further, I feel the whole world is full of tranquility. I can scale the highest mountain in the world, soaring all over the sky or swim across the great ocean without any effort but just a brush. I am teaching painting everywhere, in schools, clubs, Corporations, community clubs and individuals and I am delighted to bring this feeling of tranquility to my students besides teaching them technique of painting.
