

IS MAGAZINE

No. 356 Friday May 18, 2007
www.aziacity.com

It's Free

style Seven Woods and Woods protegies
art Zeng Fanzhi still shocks DJ interview Ashley Casselle is different interview Actress turned yogi Almen Wong

B#TCH!

B#TCH!

B#TCH!

THE I-S GUIDE TO COMPLAINING

Visit I-S MAGAZINE's new homepage.
Updated daily with events, dining and nightlife.
WWW.AZIACITY.COM

aziacity
we know what best

streettalk

COPYCAT

Lezard Leung is a henna artist. But this ex-Boom Boom Room resident is more known for his impersonation of the late Hong Kong pop diva Anita Mui, entertaining people with polished dance moves, well-timed jokes and fine singing. We got him to tell us about his devotion to Mui.

What sparked off your liking for Anita Mui?
It was the very first time I was exposed to her performance of "Bad Girl" on videotape. That was way back in the mid '80s, and it left a very deep impression on me. At that time, the way she brought the song to life was in a class of its own.

What is your favorite Anita song and why?
I don't have a favorite because I like different songs of hers at different times. But the all time favorite that I like to perform is the very up-tempo and danceable "Dream Partner," which can really rally the audience.

What do Anita's fans say about your performances?
The comments are generally good. They say I am even more coquettish on stage than Mui herself. But hey, impersonators have to exaggerate certain things!

Do you still cry when you think about Mui's demise?
I feel that it's a waste that she departed so early. But I don't cry anymore. Sure, sometimes, tears will well up, but that's it.

What has her death taught you?
Treasure the present; treasure what you have. Treasure the people around you.

What would you say to Mui if you had the chance to meet her personally?
You are so beautiful. —Ng Hui Hsien

streettalk

COPYCAT

Lezard Leung is a henna artist. But this ex-Boom Boom Room resident is more known for his impersonation of the late Hong Kong pop diva Anita Mui, entertaining people with polished dance moves, well-timed jokes and fine singing. We got him to tell us about his devotion to Mui.

What sparked off your liking for Anita Mui?
It was the very first time I was exposed to her performance of "Bad Girl" on videotape. That was way back in the mid '80s, and it left a very deep impression on me. At that time, the way she brought the song to life was in a class of its own.

What is your favorite Anita song and why?
I don't have a favorite because I like different songs of hers at different times. But the all time favorite that I like to perform is the very up-tempo and danceable "Dream Partner," which can really rally the audience.

What do Anita's fans say about your performances?
The comments are generally good. They say I am even more coquettish on stage than Mui herself. But hey, impersonators have to exaggerate certain things!

Do you still cry when you think about Mui's demise?
I feel that it's a waste that she departed so early. But I don't cry anymore. Sure, sometimes, tears will well up, but that's it.

What has her death taught you?
Treasure the present; treasure what you have. Treasure the people around you.

What would you say to Mui if you had the chance to meet her personally?
You are so beautiful. —Ng Hui Hsien

feedback

If you have comments, questions or feedback on anything you've read in IS Magazine, send us an email: feedback@aziacity.com. Letters to the Editor are also welcome. Letters may be edited for length and clarity, and are published subject to the Editor's office. Comments represent the views and opinions of the writer. Anonymous letters will not be published.

Wed. 30th M
oneline
presents:
DIRTY
www.onelove.com
www.dirtysouth.com
Attica Too